Murder and Suicide Discovered On Church Lawn at Cragmoor

Motive Lacking

Coroner Humiston Gives
Verdict, but Says No
Motive Apparent

A minister walked on the lawn of his church which faces the Shawangunk valley at Cragmoor, last evening and saw before him the tragic ending of an afternoon hiking trip.

Two bodies which he had first thought asleep bore signs of a fatal shooting—one, a 34-year-old henna-haired woman, later identified as Miss Alma E. Reimers, New York and the other, George Newkirk, 48, her brother-in-law, who was employed by the Chase National Bank.

Coroner Howard B. Humiston of Kerhonkson today issued a murder-suicide verdict but the motive for the tragedy remained undisclosed.

Gun Found in Hand

A discharged .32 calibre "Police Positive" revolver was found clutched in the right hand of Newkirk and the officials theorized that the man first shot Miss Reimers in the head and breast and then fired a bullet into his head.

The woman, who was described as attractive, was the younger of Mrs. Newkirk's two sisters, with whom the Newkirks had been staying on their vacation.

Authorities called to investigate the deaths said today that attention was first attracted to the bodies by the barking of a dog at the parsonage of the Rev. Granville Williams, rector of the old stone Episcopal Church.

Shots Are Heard

The Rev. Mr. Williams, according to the investigating group, along with others in the neighborhood heard shots at about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, but had given no serious thoughts to the incident. Mrs. Gladys M. Clay, who lives in the vicinity, the officer said, reported that she had heard three shots but thought they were fired by someone hunting woodchucks.

The Rev. Mr. Williams, the officers said, was attracted to the repeated barking of his dog on the lawn at about 7:45 o'clock last night. He had looked out, he explained to the officers, but at first thought the two were lying down to rest.

Notices Wounds

Upon walking close to the two recumbent figures, the Rev. Mr. Williams noticed the gun wounds the officers said. He then went to the home of Mrs. Clay and telephoned to the Ellenville headquarters of the state police.

State Troopers J. H. Nolan and Nicholas Obuhanch and John Metzger of the state police B. C. I. District Attorney Cleon B. Murray and Coroner Howard B. Humiston went to the scene and jointly conducted their investigation.

Body Face Downward

The body of Newkirk, the officer said, was found with the face downward.

Cross-Eyed Horse

McNaughton Says Mount
Looks in One Direction and Runs Another

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—Glen N. W. McNaughton, the attorney who once started a movement to offer President Roosevelt $5,000,000 if he would resign, charged today in a Supreme Court petition he had been sold a cross-eyed horse.

He has filed suit for $4,501 against Mrs. David A. Buckley, a prominent Virginia horsewoman, from whom he said he had bought a chestnut filly at the annual Saratoga auction August 3, 1937, for $1,600.

McNaughton said that Mrs. Buckley had assured him a white dot in the horse's eye was of no consequence, but that he had not spent $2,901 trying to train the horse to run straight.

The horse could win no races, McNaughton said, because it looked in one direction—and ran another.

Two insurance policies on the girl were payable to the father, Prosecutor Orlando said, adding that both men would be charged with murder.

Senate Is Called To Hear Charges Against Martin

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP)—Governor Lehman called today for a special session of New York's Senate "as soon as possible" to consider removal charges against Kings County Judge George W. Martin.

The executive's action came after a week's consideration of Martin's reply to charges of a Kings county grand jury filed by Special Prosecutor John Harlan Amen, who is investigating charges of official corruption in Kings county.

Removal Recommended
"I shall recommend to the Senate the removal of Honorable George W. Martin, county judge of Kings county," the governor said.

"I have reached this decision after careful consideration of the charges filed with me by the grand jury for extraordinary and trial term of Supreme Court, Kings county, together with supporting data, and the reply to those charges submitted to me by Honorable George W. Martin August 22."

The governor said he will consult with Senate leaders to determine a date for convocation of the smaller house of the Legislature and added:

"I hope we will be able to make it as early a date as possible."

Lord Lothian Says
British Resolved

New Ambassador Arrives
in U. S. on Aquitania

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—Great Britain's new ambassador to the United States, Lord Lothian, arrived on the Aquitania today and said he was convinced "the British government, Parliament and people are now united and resolute in preparing to resist aggression as the first step toward restoring the reign of principle in international affairs."

Lord Lothian, a bachelor who succeeds Sir Ronald Lindsay in Washington, was one of 1,412 passengers. The ship's windows and ports were painted black, and blue bulbs which gave off a faint glow at night had replaced the ordinary light bulbs on all decks.

Captain George Gibbons, master of the ship, said these war-time precautions of sea travel were the result of orders from the British admiralty.

The new ambassador remarked that public opinion in England when he left last Wednesday "was then already consolidated behind the conviction that unless resistance were made to any further attempt to remake the map of Europe by violence and the destruction of the independence of the free nation, international law would become intolerable for everybody."

As recently as eight months ago Lord Lothian expressed the personal view that Germany's lost colonies should be restored to her. Asked about this today, he merely grinned.

Senator Clark Says Canal Zone Lacks Modern Military Arms in High Degree

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—Coincidental with the disclosure that more United States troops would be sent to Panama at once, Senator Clark (D-Idaho) declared today that there is an "amazing lack" of modern military equipment in the Canal Zone.

"They are using anti-aircraft range finders that were made during the World War," said Clark on his return from a trip to the canal.

"Some of the coast defense guns were made before the war. They sent some new guns down recently, but red tape will hold up the delivery of necessary ammunition until October."

Before that time, the first units of 7,360 additional enlisted men

Merchants to Hold Gala Fall Display, Contest for Public

Entertainment to Be Part of Program Thursday,
September 14; Prizes
Also for Merchants

Thursday, September 14, will be the next high spot in Kingston business.

At a meeting of the Kingston Business Men's Association held Monday afternoon that was fixed as the date for the annual fall opening and window display.

Fall opening day is the time when merchants of Kingston put on display the new merchandise for fall and winter and extra care is taken in trimming display windows and putting on exhibition the very latest designs and effects in suits, dresses, millinery, household appliances of every kind and all the other lines of merchandise for which Kingston has become the shopping center for a wide extent of territory.

Entertainment Features

In addition to the display made by the store the merchants always make it a point to provide entertainment features of some kind to help keep the thousands of people interested as they walk through the streets of the shopping section, view the many handsomely decorated windows and exchange greetings with old friends and acquaintances.

In view of the popularity of this year's spring opening program much the same course will be followed this year. One of the leading features, which will be repeated, was the contest, open to the public, to see who could come nearest to estimating the correct value of goods shown in the various store windows. Each merchant participating offers a prize to the person making the closest estimate as to the value of his own particular window.

There also will be a window display contest in which merchants themselves will strive for prizes. Ribbons will be awarded to the stores having the best decorated windows.

Alien Ships Searched; Two Sailings Halted

Customs Officials Looking for Arms That Might Be Used to Prey on Trade in Event of European War; Normandie, Bremen Are Held

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—A high treasury official indicated today that customs officials were searching foreign ships for armament that might be used to prey on ocean commerce in event of a European war.

Herbert E. Gaston, assistant secretary of the treasury, disclosed that clearance papers had been refused both for the French liner Normandie and the German liner Bremen pending completion of a thorough customs inspection.

Asked what the ships were being examined for, Gaston said the law required customs inspectors to look for "unmanifested cargo and ships stores, and to examine crew and passengers, as well as many other things."

Told that a New York customs official had referred cryptically to "privatizing" in connection with the examination of the Bremen, Gaston said there were strict laws and treaties on privateering. He declined to discuss the connection of privateering with the customs examination, but hinted broadly that it had a major part.

Privateering was explained by officials, in a general way, to consist of warlike actions by merchant vessels of a belligerent nation. One official reminded reporters that only about a week ago customs inspectors seized a quantity of pistols and ammunition off a Japanese boat at San Francisco.

19 Passengers Taken Off

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—Immigration authorities today took 19 passengers off the North German Lloyd liner Bremen and detained them at Ellis Island—the same number taken off the French liner Normandie yesterday.

Byron H. Uhl, district superintendent of immigration at Ellis Island, declared "there was nothing unusual about the passengers being held. It had absolutely nothing to do with the war scare or any unusual circumstances."

"With the arrival of any ship from Europe," he said, "there are always a number of passengers whose eligibility to land is questionable for such varying reasons as health, their ability to support themselves and not become public charges, and the validity of their passports and visas."

There was no indication at noon (E. S. T.) when the Bremen would be permitted to sail for Germany. Offices of the line said she had been ordered to return to Germany without passengers, within 24 hours of her arrival. She docked at 5 p. m. (E. S. T.) yesterday.

Gregory O'Keefe, assistant collector of customs, said it would take the searching party which boarded the vessel at 7 p. m. (E. S. T.) several more hours to complete their work. He said 20 members of the enforcement divisions of the customs service had been assigned to the vessel.

Routine Matter

O'Keefe said all liners were searched as a routine matter, and exactly the same inspection would be made of the Normandie before she was permitted to sail.

He added the Bremen would receive clearance papers when Collector of Port Harry M. Durning

House of Commons Receives Premier's Words With Cheers

Whether Mediation Offer
Will Be Accepted Not

Reply Is Awaited

'We Are Ready'

Chamberlain Says Nation
Knows Where Its Duty
Lies; Still Hopes

Late bulletins will be found

(By The Associated Press)

An offer by the monarchs of Belgium and The Netherlands to mediate in the tense European crisis was reported authoritatively from Paris today as Prime Minister Chamberlain in the British House of Commons restated Britain's determination to stand by Poland.

King Leopold III and Queen Wilhelmina were said by sources close to the French foreign office to have communicated their proffer of "good offices" to Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Poland.

Whether Britain and France attempted to make use of this reported offer was asserted to depend on the reply the British government was awaiting from Adolf Hitler to its latest note.

Commons Cheers

Britain's determination to "hold fast to the lines which we have laid down" on the issue of peace or war was declared firmly by Prime Minister Chamberlain before a cheering House of Commons today.

The decision, he made it clear, rested with Adolf Hitler with the way still open for negotiation if he chose to accept British terms. The first requisite, Chamberlain said, was the removal of the border tension between Germany and Poland.

He said the situation was too delicate to disclose the details of the communications between Great Britain and Germany and the position now was that Hitler's reply was awaited.

'We are Ready'

British policy was unchanged, he said, and "none has any doubt as to where our duty lies." He added "we are ready for any eventuality," the whole British fleet stands waiting to take up its position in event of war, but "there is still hope that reason will prevail."

Optimism spread in Berlin after Hitler's reply to Britain was reported sent by plane to London. Unverified, unofficial reports were heard that Britain was willing to consider "conciliatory and far-reaching" solutions both to the Polish-German and general European problems.

Denies Details

The British foreign office strenuously denied purported details of these reports.

Embassy's Plans

Americans Would Be Sent
Home at Four Points,
London Embassy Says

London, Aug. 29 (AP)—Detailed plans for the speedy evacuation of Americans in war time through four British "evacuation sectors" were announced today at the United States embassy here.

At the same time, embassy officials announced the Swedish American liner Drottningholm would touch at Glasgow September 5 to take more than 1,000 American passengers to Gottingen and thence to New York, and that other agencies were obtaining ships to transport stranded Americans home.

The evacuation plans, which have been formulated since the crisis last September, provide for moving out of London to four sectors tourists and American residents who wish to return home.

Buses and railroads will be used to get the Americans to the sectors, the exact locations of which were not disclosed. The embassy did say, however, one would be in the southern England, another in central England, the third in Scotland and a fourth in Ireland.

Murder, Suicide At Cragmoor

ers said, was face downward on the lawn and when they turned it over the pistol was found in the right hand.

Of the three shots fired, the officers said, one had been directed at the woman's chest and the other pierced through her left temple. Newkirk then had apparently covered his face with a handkerchief and fired a shot through his own right temple and fell near the feet of Miss Reimers.

Wife Gives No Statement

Newkirk's wife, the officers reported, said that he had been in ill health, but beyond that, gave no statement which could be interpreted as a motive for the double tragedy.

The officers said that they learned from Mrs. Newkirk and the other sister of the dead girl that the group had taken a walk yesterday afternoon from the Vista Maria where they had been staying, to the opening near the old stone church from which can be viewed the valley extending from the foot of the Shawangunk range to the Catskills.

Others Go Away

The others, according to the officers, said they left the spot at about 4 o'clock, leaving Newkirk and his wife near the church. The shooting according to the reports of those who recalled hearing the shots, occurred between 5 and 5:30 o'clock.

The distance from the Vista Maria to the church was estimated by one of the officers to be about a mile and a half. The group had apparently walked leisurely to the spot and after arriving, lounged about on the church lawn together before Mrs. Newkirk and her other sister decided to return back to the Vista Maria.

The New York addresses of both Newkirk and Miss Reimers was given as 370 Convent avenue. The bodies were given over to Coroner Howard B. Humiston following his investigation.

Financial and Commercial

European Markets Held Fairly Even Course on Monday

European securities markets maintained a fairly even course Monday in the face of conditions which maintain at this time. London market was steady, with volume of trading negligible and with no quotations on American stocks due to restrictions imposed by the British government on sales of foreign securities.

Financial Times averages were up. With use of the telephone restricted trading on the Paris Bourse was held down and with few exceptions there were no wild fluctuations in prices. There was no sign of panicky action on the Amsterdam Bourse; domestic stocks opened weak but shortly afterward there was a good recovery. Closing prices mostly were below the day's highs, with losses ranging to eight points.

Exchange remained in a chaotic condition and for the third consecutive day trading in foreign exchange remained practically impossible in London. The price of gold was fixed at the highest level in history. Sterling was completely out of control, going to $4.12, a six-year low, but later recovering to $4.28. Sweden and Finland readjusted relationship between their currencies and the pound and Japan is considering linking the yen with the dollar. Buenos Aires remained closed.

What may prove to be the largest individual wheat sales in history of the grain trade is reported to be in course of negotiations between Britain and France on the one hand and Argentina on the other. Plan is said to be the purchase of the entire exportable surplus of wheat now available in the Argentine. Back of the move is not only accumulation of war stocks, but prevention of supplies falling into hands of the German government. There also is a report from New Zealand that the British government is taking over the entire mutton supplies of that country, amounting to about one million carcasses.

Bank of the Netherlands has raised its discount rate to three per cent, from two per cent. Australia has imposed stringent foreign exchange regulations, limiting overseas shipments to 5,000 pounds monthly.

War risk insurance rates have again been sharply raised by Lloyd's. In addition the syndicate is transferring to this country $40,000,000 "to prevent a European war from interfering with claim payments here."

On the New York Stock Exchange net losses for the day were shown in all averages. In the Dow Jones averages, industrials opened 1.72 points below Saturday's advanced position, lost still further ground in the first hour of trading, staged a partial recovery later and closed above the lows for the day, but with a net loss of 1.73 points, to 134.66. Rails declined .86 point, to 26.02 and utilities were off .78 point, to 24.35.

Volume was 670,000 shares. All bond averages were lower and many new lows were registered in the foreign list.

Dealers in commodities were confused by the foreign situation as efforts were made to adjust commitments with reference to the drop in sterling. The Dow Jones index was off .25 point for the day. Wheat futures were up 3/4 to 1 1/4 in Chicago and 2 1/4 to 2 1/2 in Winnipeg. In an active session cotton futures were off more than $1 a bale. Spot silk went to $2.88 cents a pound, highest since August, 1930.

Net income of Class 1 railroads for July is indicated at around $1,000,000. First months this year the carriers have earned net income after all charges.

United Airlines reported net profits for July of $179,608, comparing with net of $4,137 in July, 1938.

I. C. C. has granted permission to the New Haven Railroad to file a reorganization plan for the Boston & Providence Railroad Corp.

Hacker Products show net of $1,969,903, or $1.21 on outstanding shares for year ended June 30, vs. net of $951,405, or 52 cents a share in previous year. With a cash balance of $7,133,155 Hackers directors would buy up their present set-up, but would not sell because of high taxes on the transaction and low interest they would receive when they tried to invest the money received from the sale.

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—Stocks stepped up fractions to 2 points in today's market as Wall Street became a bit more hopeful for European peace.

Traders seldom reached for favorites, though, and dealings were slow from the start. There was a slight slip-up after mid-day but, around the final hour, prices were around the tops. Transfers were at the rate of approximately 500,000 shares.

Although sentiment seemed to have improved considerably in boardrooms, conflicting reports from London and Berlin on the latest British note to Hitler regarding the German-Polish controversy tended to keep buyers from extending commitments unduly.

The feeling appeared to be growing, however, that even if war eventuates, American markets and industry generally are in a position to withstand the shock. If, as many now believe, hostilities will be avoided, the thought was maintained that the spring business push would gain further impetus in the closing months of 1939.

Optimism appeared to have revived abroad as markets at London, Paris and Amsterdam exhibited strength. World wheat prices, up usually on war threats, fell substantially. Cotton turned upward. Bonds, especially U. S. governments, came back.

Prominent stock gainers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft, American Telephone, Western Union, Santa Fe, Great Northern, Anaconda, Westinghouse, DuPont, Celanese, Loft and Union Carbide.

Doing better in the curb were Electric Bond & Share, Lockheed, American Gas and International Petroleum.

His letter gets a speedy reply. The "exceptional song" has met immediate approval. A great future is predicted. The song of course must have excellent music composed for it. That and a few slight revisions and other costs, such as copy-righting the completed song, require a "small fee." The "small fee" may range from $50 to $100. The song writer isn't permitted to dwell too long on the sordid thoughts of money. The letter makes a point of relating the success attained by former unknown writers. He, too, is soon to taste the sweet glory of fame. And so the song shark gets his fees.

The next letter excites emotions still further. The finished song has been declared ready for "big time." The "famous composer" would like to write more music for the "sparkling lyrics." A beautifully engraved contract calls for only a modest commission on "movie, radio and sheet music revenues." In this way, a world of benefits are intimated. But quite tactfully the mention of a guarantee of the sale of the song has been omitted. "Offering for sale" is quite another matter.

A hundred copies of the song submitted may eventually find their way into print. Those copies, a United States copyright and music by a "famous composer" are all the shark is obligated to provide. To further protect himself he may arrange for a single radio broadcast from some insignificant station. Hundreds of complaints are received each week by the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, and the Music Publishers' Protective association. But nothing can be done about it. The sharks stay within the letter of the law. The only remedy seems to be exposure.

Strangely enough it is ridiculously simple to detect the song shark. The first rule for amateurs to keep in mind is that the legitimate publisher asks no investment from the writer. Accredited firms assume all responsibility and expense for publication, distribution and exploitation. Legitimate publishers do not advertise for "song poems," "bit lyrics," or "verses" so that they can furnish appropriate music. Publishers do not accept songs from "song writers' agents," or other middlemen. And, so, six letters recently received are answered.

Lights of New York

By L. L. STEVENSON

From 30,000 to 40,000 persons, scattered all over the country, contribute about a million dollars a year to operators of the song publishing racket. The gyp publishers conduct their racket through the mails. They get reluctant though useful co-operation from Uncle Sam.

The government can't do anything about the matter. The sharks are careful to keep within the letter of the law. Discreetly worded promises yield full immunity from prosecution since those promises, however badly they may turn out for the song writer, are kept. Occasionally a sharp stake over the thin dividing line. That's bad for him. It doesn't do the song writer much good, however, as there are more parasites to take his place and add to the number of broken hearts. The business is so profitable that there are always those ready to prey on the ambitious.

The song writing urge seems to be strongly implanted here in the United States. Many of the hopefuls send their brain children to publishing firms familiar to sheet-music purchasers. It is safe to say that all are returned to the writers, in most cases unopened and unexamined, publishers being exceedingly wary about dealing with unknowns. Picture then the joy when an ad such as the following is encountered: "Song writer wanted. Famous composer needs more material from new talent. Send your song poems at once. Fame and fortune can be yours." Nine times out of ten, one or more manuscripts go into the mail. The embryo song writer is ready for a skyrocket flight to glory. But instead, usually a trimming awaits him.

His letter gets a speedy reply. The "exceptional song" has met immediate approval. A great future is predicted. The song of course must have excellent music composed for it. That and a few slight revisions and other costs, such as copy-righting the completed song, require a "small fee." The "small fee" may range from $50 to $100. # U. S. Is Launching Biggest Bid for Sea Trade

Liner America Is First Of 500 Ships For Merchant Fleet

Newport News, Va. (AP)—When Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt "busts the bottle" across the bow of the sleek liner America here on August 31 and the ship slides down the ways over 45,000 pounds of grease, the United States will have launched the largest liner this nation has ever built.

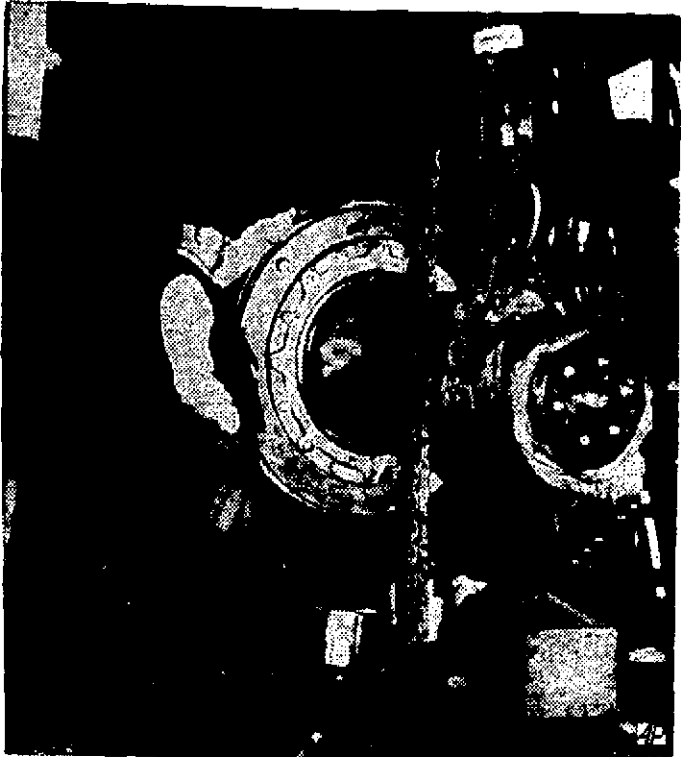

This is an event worth celebrating—especially for a country that has lagged so in the race for ocean passengers that she had an inferiority complex.

Among big ships, the America is no giant. She is 723 feet in length compared with 962 for France's Normandie and 1018 for Britain's Queen Mary.

500 More Ships

But, the America is only the first of 500 ships the Maritime Commission will build for private companies in the next 10 years under a program to regain for the nation prestige lost since the 90's. During the 19th century the country's swift, square-rigged clippers were world-famed. But our reputation evaporated with steam.

At present the country's largest vessels are the sister ships Manhattan and Washington—each of about 24,000 gross tons and owned by the United States Line. The America, which is being built for the same line, will have a gross tonnage of about 30,000.

One of the two drive shafts for the America. Just enough is exposed for attaching the huge propeller.

For Passenger Appeal

"Few other luxury liners will be able to match it in passenger appealing features," says a United States Line official. "It will have air-conditioned public rooms, glass-enclosed promenade decks, handball courts, and telephones and showers or baths in nearly all staterooms.

The cost of the ship, $17,000,000, is so stiff that few private operators would have been interested in building, without government help. Holland's newest liner, the Nieuw Amsterdam, for example, is about the same size as the America, but cost about half as much to build.

Three Good Reasons

There are at least three reasons generally given for the difference in price. They help explain why the government chips in on the bill for the America.

1. The United States pays its labor more than most foreign countries pay their ship workers. (Later, the ship line will pay its sailors more than the foreign competitors pay theirs. Most American sailors make around $70 a month while most French sailors get only $36.)

2. Since the Morro Castle disaster, U. S. law requires that American ships be more thoroughly fire-proofed than most countries require. The America will have special fireproofing material in all walls. In the hull will be 14 hydraulically-operated bulkheads that can be closed from a central switchboard.

3. Because the government may want to convert the America to navy uses in case of war, it is making sure the ship is rugged structurally and that its plating is unusually thick.

This, with the launching of the America, the government is making it clear that it no longer will let higher costs prevent American lines from getting their share of the world's ocean traffic.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Bags Self

Washington, Mo.—While squirrel hunting, Frank Richardson accidentally discharged his gun. The bullet lodged in his back near the point where another bullet—also accidentally discharged from the same rifle—had been resting since a 1927 squirrel hunt. "I think I'll give up," said Richardson. He will recover.

Misfortune's Champ

Uniontown, Pa.—Back home from the hospital, 34-year-old Earl Wolfe of nearby Smithfield wonders what will happen to him next. In recent years, he has survived gangrene, peritonitis and a streptococcus infection—and six major operations, including one for upside down kidneys and another for amputation of his left arm.

End of Joke

Balboa, Calif.—Seven girls were having a whale of a time letting air out of the tires on a parked auto. Policeman Ralph Waterlue found an out-fashioned hand pump and let them take turns. When the tires were inflated, the girls promised "never again."

Be(=)ware

Sleepy Eye, Minn.—Add motor-ing hazards: Abbie Neumann, driving with the car window open and his arm resting comfortably on the sill, suddenly grabbed his arm and yelled "A bee!" But Abbie was wrong. A passing motorist had flipped a cigaret up his sleeve.

Tow Alarm

Belden, Neb.—The Belden fire truck was zipping along, answering a rural alarm, when its engine sputtered, coughed and died. The firemen shouted and waved until a passing car stopped and towed the fire truck to the fire.

LEIBHARDT

Leibhardt, Aug. 29.—Mr. and Mrs. William Brown recently entertained their sons and wives, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brown of Iliou, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Brown and family of Wawarsing, and for dinner the past Friday, William J. Morgan and daughter, Katherine, of Canton, O.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Gray of Walden and Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Taylor and son, Melvin of Wallkill, were guests Sunday with the latter's sister, Mrs. M. Gorsline and family.

Mrs. Louis C. Fredt will be the teacher for the Mombaccus school this coming term.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest B. Markle spent part of the day Friday in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Gray of Tabasco entertained friends from New York over the week-end.

The dog catcher was through this section last week picking up dogs that were unlicensed.

Ben Schrieman returned to New York Sunday after spending his vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Schrieman.

Apprentices Give Play by Royton

Woodstock, Aug. 29.—The Apprentice Group of the Woodstock Playhouse revealed to the public just how much they had been taught last Saturday when they presented "The Little People" by Velma Royton.

The group did their work so well that it was a shame that a larger audience had not gathered at the playhouse to witness the play.

Members of the regular Elwyn Players took some of the parts since the apprentice group was so small. These included Lester Bacharach, Peter Adams, Allen E. Cramer and Robert Whitehead.

The action of the play takes place in the Jenkins home in Brooklyn. The Jenkins family are ordinary, or, as one of the characters put it, "little" people. Their problems are much the same as might be found in any American home.

Aside from the members of the professional company, David Bower and June Morgan probably gave the outstanding work of the afternoon. They played the younger members of the Jenkins family and gave an excellent picture of adolescent youth. At several points in the play young Bower did work which would be hard to excel no matter who the actor might be.

Jean Brewster, playing the part of a young girl trying to get on the stage, did fairly well as did Peggy Fowler who had the "heaviest" part to carry.

Robert Van Kleeck of Kingston, who is interested ultimately in directing, acted as stage manager. The play was directed by Miss Royton, the authoress, and by Robert Whitehead.

There are approximately 50,000,000 pecan trees in Texas.

MASONRY TO CELEBRATE

The Masonic fraternity of Kingston is planning a dedication to mark the formal opening of the new Masonic Temple on Albany avenue with both Kingston Lodge and Rondout Lodge uniting in the dedicatory service.

For years the fraternity members have discussed the building of a Masonic Temple in Kingston in which both the uptown and the downtown lodges could hold their regular communications and the ceremonies on September 9 will mark the consummation of the project.

The first step in acquiring a Masonic Temple for Kingston was taken several years ago when the former Gray residence on Albany avenue was purchased. The property was used for several years by the Masonic Club and last year both lodges decided to turn the building into a temple.

In order to do so it was necessary to make a number of alterations and enlarge the second floor for lodge room purposes. This work is now completed, and the temple is ready to be dedicated.

Other cities in the Hudson River valley have had Masonic Temples for years, and Kingston now falls into step with its own temple where the Masonic fraternity will meet hereafter.

THERAPEUTIC PAINTING

A state hospital for the insane has been giving a show of the work of its patients during the past year in various fields of art. There are paintings, ceramic sculpture, woven and hooked rugs and many other examples of art and handicraft. The objects made are not for sale, but for the use of the hospital itself, to beautify the surroundings of the patients. The achievement is a result of a WPA recreational and occupational therapy project, which has promoted games and play production as well as the creative art.

This is a most hopeful indication in the general attitude toward the mentally sick. There used to be an idea that an insane person was completely distorted, deaf, unconscious of what was going on around him. With the development of medical and psychological science it has been discovered that most mentally sick people are sick on only one side—there is one twist in their mental attitudes, but in other matters they are normal and have normal interests. Creative work is one of the things that keep sane people sane. It helps to restore the balance of those who have become unbalanced.

With part of the day spent usefully and happily, the patient has a far better chance for recovery than without this creative activity. With as much of his mind drawn into normal life and action as possible, the general health improves and the sick part has a better chance to get well.

NATIONAL HONOR

"Honor" becomes a big factor in international affairs. The fate of all Europe may turn on the meaning given that word now by the Hitler government. Poland must turn over both Danzig and the Polish Corridor, says Hitler, because "German honor is at stake."

He means evidently that Germany cannot tolerate the dishonor of having Germans governed by Poles.

This is not an unusual attitude to be taken by statesmen when seeking a plausible pretext for aggression. But it looks strange to the rest of the world in view of Hitler annexation of the Czechs last fall, against his own pledge and in spite of the fact that they were an alien race.

Against every German he seeks to repatriate, the outer world now balances an enslaved Czech.

VICTORIA OR HELEN?

This is a realm where men fear to tread, but some rational comment seems called for when the Paris dressmakers foretell Victorian styles for next year, corsets and bustles and all. Well, perhaps not all—but the reader can use his imagination, or his memory, if he lived through the late Nineties.

Fashions do move in cycles, as history and art reveal. You can find the Victorian outfit in the figurines and on the walls of ruins in Crete, dated about 1,000 B. C. Other "modern" styles are found by antiquarians in ancient Babylon, Egypt and Athens.

But it is hard to believe that we're going back now, in these times, to the unnatural horrors referred to. For we seem to have entered a period again when the beauty of the human body is appreciated, and when morality is not confused with dress. It is as easy to imagine Queen Victoria in a modern bathing suit as a current bathing beauty wrapped, weighted, pinched and padded in the manner of the much-clothed queen.

That may be done at some social events, perhaps, as a sort of conscious satire. But in the office or at school or on the beach? Hardly. Even in an age of spreading political tyranny, men and women will probably preserve their physical freedom. Instead of going back to Queen Victoria, we go back to ancient Greece.

CANCER OF THE BREAST

I have spoken before of three cases in a row where the patient thought she had cancer of the breast and, after much mental anguish, finally went to this surgeon only to find that the lump was an enlarged milk gland, not a cancer.

It might be considered most discouraging that after all the search for the cause of cancer, it has not yet been found, but the greatly encouraging fact is how much is known now about what is not cancer, so that needless operations, and radium and X-ray treatment may be avoided.

At the meeting of the French Association for the Study of Cancer, a report on the value of transillumination (putting the suspected growth between a light and the examiner) was presented by several physicians. Dr. Rene Huguenin of the Paris Cancer Institute reported his findings in 800 cases using this method.

Dr. Huguenin pointed out that the old idea that cancer of the breast was not nodular (more than one lump) was wrong, as was also the idea that cancer of the breast was not movable with the skin. Another idea that was mistaken was that if the lump was large enough to occupy one-fourth of the breast, it was cancer. As a matter of fact, "recent" observations show that the extensive and irregular growths are frequently innocent (not cancer) whereas small regular nodules or lumps are often cancer.

Still another mistake that has been made for years is in thinking that when there was a lump in the breast and a lump in the armpit, the lump in the breast was cancer. It is now known that inflammation of the lymph glands can cause these lumps in the armpit and that in some cases of early cancer there are no lumps in the armpit.

What about this new method—putting a light behind the cancer? Will this method show up cancer also?

No. At the Paris Cancer Institute this light method was found to be correct (by later tissue tests) in about 80 per cent of cases. The other 20 per cent of cases that appeared to be cancer were tuberculosis and cysts containing blood.

The chief value of this light method of examination is that it shows all the growths that may be cancer and, by taking a small piece of tissue for examination, growths that are really cancer can be removed by operation. Also, by means of this light, the exact position of the growth is discovered.

Outcome of Present European Crisis Expected to Be Peaceful, with Hitler Accepting Mediation

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 29.—With a and more replies will go back and forth these next few days. Most of our officials still refuse to believe Hitler will risk war. Up to now he has been able to use his magic to gain victories without bloodshed.

Now that he is face to face with war, are the German people ready, have they been prepared for the sacrifice? Have fathers and mothers in Germany no voice even under a dictatorship? German morale broke down behind the lines once before, and may do so again.

One significant thing emphasized here is that Chancellor Hitler's communication to Premier Daladier was couched in restrained language—neither provocative noratory. If the will to peace exists, and the evidence accumulates that it is as important for Germany to avoid bloodshed as it is for the British and French, there will be a compromise solution.

It is interesting to note how the British government functions in the present crisis. The message from Hitler was considered by a meeting of the entire cabinet of 23 persons. The opposition leaders were invited in for participation. The decision was not that of one man—Prime Minister Chamberlain—but of the whole government.

This circumstance contrasts sharply with the procedure in Berlin and with the power which even a president of the United States may wield in foreign policy, though Mr. Wilson and summer leaders in Congress for consultation before he recommended that the German attacks on American lives at sea be accepted as a war declaration. Parliamentary government, with its manifest responsibility, means collaboration of many minds instead of one-man government. Delegation of so-called dictatorial powers to the executive does not mean granting one man unlimited powers, for at any time the cabinet can be overthrown and a new personnel chosen.

Since the outcome of the present European crisis is expected to be peaceful, there is no sign of a plan to call Congress into session, though, if war does break out, this move may be expected along with conference of ambassadors and ministers of all Latin American states to decide, in accordance with the declaration of Lima, what steps Pan-American states shall take in union to protect their rights and their neutrality.

HUDSON RIVER STEAMBOATS

These articles are written from the collection of George W. Murdock, veteran marine engineer.

No. 105—Magenta.

Build during the Civil War and serving her time along with other steamboats in the service of the Federal government during the war, the "Magenta" was another of those Hudson river steamboats which enjoyed a career spanning half a century before she was broken up.

The "Magenta" was a wooden hull vessel built at East Albany in 1863, and was powered by an engine constructed by S. Secor and Company of New York. She was 197 feet long, had a 30-foot breadth of beam, a hold nine feet deep, and a tonnage of 510 net tons. She had cylinders measuring 48 inches in diameter with a 10 foot stroke.

Build for Hudson river traffic as replacement for the steamboat "Constitution" which had been sold to the Federal government for use in the Civil War, the "Magenta" was placed in service on the Newburgh and Albany route running in line with the steamboat "Eagle" as a day boat.

The "Magenta" proved to be a remarkably fast vessel for her size, but she did not remain on the Newburgh route as the Federal government needed her for service as General Grant's dispatch boat on the Potomac and James rivers. During her period of service on the southern rivers, the "Magenta," with Lyman Lawrence as chief engineer, gained the reputation as one of the fastest vessels in government service.

At the close of the war the "Magenta" returned to New York and was chartered out for excursions around the harbor, to the Hudson river as far as Newburgh, and on Long Island Sound. Near the close of the "seventies" the "Magenta" was purchased by Stevens, Condit, and Wiedenmayer of Newark and placed in service between Newark, Rockaway and Coney Island.

March 27, 1938, marked the destruction by fire of the steamboat "Minnie Cornell" of the Keyport and New York line, and the "Magenta" was purchased by Joseph Cornell of New York to replace the destroyed steamer.

The next point of interest in the history of the "Magenta" is the part it played in the funeral of Joseph Cornell. Mr. Cornell died in New York city on November 15, 1898, at the age of 62. His funeral was held the following Tuesday afternoon on board the steamboat "Magenta" which had transported the body from New York city, up the Hudson river, to Rondout, and the newspaper account of the ceremony aboard the steamboat gives a vivid description of the scene.

In the spring of 1905 the "Magenta" was chartered to run from the Battery to Bay Ridge, 65th street, Brooklyn, in connection with the Coney Island Railroad during the summer months.

Under the command of Captain Wilcox and with William E. Fairbrother, now a resident of Port Ewen, as chief engineer, the "Magenta" was returned to the Keyport route in the fall of 1907. She was in service on this route when the steamboat "New Brunswick" was destroyed by fire on August 7, 1909. The "Magenta" was then used to replace the "New Brunswick" on the New York and New Brunswick route, running until the fall of 1911 when she was sold to Charles Engle of New York.

N. Y. Her machinery and boilers were removed and the hull was used for a lighter until 1915 when the remains of the "Magenta" were sold to J. H. Gregory of Perth Amboy, who junked her.

Tandler Sisters Give Fine Program

Monday evening at the Town Hall, Woodstock, the two talented Tandler sisters appeared as soloists in a joint recital which was attended by a goodly sized audience from Kingston as well as the village. Gladys Tandler, younger of the sisters, appeared in three groups of soprano solos and Verna Tandler played three piano solos and acted as accompanist for her sister.

The program opened with five German songs, "Frühlingsglaube," "Die Forelle" and "Aufenthalts," by Schubert, "Vergleichliches Standchen" by Brahms and "Widmung" by Schumann. In all of her groups, the German, French and English diction were clear and exact. The soprano gave an impression of skillful use of her vocal resources. Her voice seemed of good volume, with tonal steadiness and an appealing quality.

Miss Verna Tandler opened her group with the playing of the Bach-Busoni "Chaconne." She showed thorough technical command of her music and in both her solo work and in her accompaniments played with accuracy, precision and feeling. Both sisters gave performances of finished technique and pleased the audience with a delightful evening of music. Although each of the sisters received encores, the pianist seemed to receive more applause for her technical prowess and musicianship.

Other soprano solos in the first group were four French songs, "Nuit d'Étoiles" by Debussy, "Chant Hindou" by Bemberg, "Les Yeux" by Rabey and "Carneval" by Fauré. The second part of the program opened with two piano solos, "May Night" by Palmgren and "Hungarian Rhapsody VIII" by Liszt and concluded with "Bird of the Wilderness" by Horsman, "Clorinda" by Morgan, "Ah, Love but a Day" by Beach and "Love Is the Wind" by MacFadyen.

A Table Rule

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me whether, when iced coffee served at a lunch party has no plate under it, the spoon should be laid on the table or left in the glass.

Answer: The spoon is left in the glass—or if you have finished stirring with it, lay it on the edge of the plate in front of you and let it be taken away with the plate.

Don't Worry About Good Luck

Dear Mrs. Post: At a wedding reception this afternoon, I was standing out in the hall when the bride went upstairs to dress. The bridesmaids all gathered next to me and the bride threw her bouquet straight at me. In fact, it hit me on the chest. I did not mean to catch it, but having it in my arms, I didn't know what to do with it, and so I kept it. In a way I was pleased but now I wonder if I should have handed it to a bridesmaid?

Answer: If you had run forward to catch the bouquet, that would have been a very wrong thing to do. But since the bouquet came straight at you and hit you without your even reaching for it, I think you had better take it as a happy omen and not worry about it. To have handed it to a bridesmaid wouldn't have meant anything. And even to have given it back to the bride to throw again, because it had not been meant for you, would have lost all its meaning. If you are married, then of course the answer is different. Its hitting you would not count, and the bride should have thrown it again.

When the Bride Is Fifty

Dear Mrs. Post: My mother, who is 50 years old, is going to be married for the second time. Her husband-to-be has never been married before, and this is probably the reason he so very much wants her to wear white. Will this be in good taste, considering her age? And another thing: Should my grandfather walk up the aisle with her? I think it's silly for a woman her age to be given away by an old gentleman like grandfather. Thank you for anything you can write about these things.

Answer: She may quite properly wear a white dress (with a hat, of course). She may also carry a white bouquet—but please, very small. If I were she, I would walk up the church aisle alone—but if you have a brother, she could walk with him. An elderly bride supported by her father verges on the burlesque, but a Stopping for tea at the country club, she heartily bites into a whole sandwich—never guessing that it's as much of an error as to bite a whole piece of bread. You break a sandwich or a piece of bread as you eat it.

Avoiding such offending blunders is simple if you check up on etiquette. Does the question of "Fingers vs. Forks" worry you? Use a fork for club and three-decker sandwiches, for layer and frosted cakes, French pastry.

These foods are eaten with the fingers: Crisp curls of bacon, celery and radishes, olives, Saratoga chips, cookies, plain cakes.

What should you do with your napkin as you rise from the table at a dinner party? Tuck it, half folded, under the edge of your plate.

By Marie Blizard

YESTERDAY: Laura tells Cecily that something peculiar is going on, but can say no more. At peace with Laura, but disinterested with Cecily, Cecily prepares for the end of the season. She goes shopping with Philip.

Chapter 34 Yacht Club

PHILIP was hard put to divorce the banter from the sarcasm. He hid behind similar banter. "Wouldn't you be willing to starve in a garret, Cecily?" he asked.

"With your special gifts, we wouldn't have to! And then, of course, you could always write another book."

He seized on her suggestion. "As a matter of fact, I've a great book in mind, my girl. You know, Cecily, as I've said to you before, I'm only a weak fellow unable to resist the pleasant lure of your cooing invitations. But now... well, I'm getting anxious to be a work."

"If I didn't know that your aunt was counting on me to stay around for the concert, I'd jolly well get out and get to work."

"Of course, she's counting on you," Cecily murmured, wondering just what he had to do with it. "I'm going to Rio. Did I tell you?"

"No."

"Yes. The background of my next novel is laid in South America and I want to run down to get a little local color."

"Oh, Philip, I'm so disappointed. I thought you were staying here to get local color! I was so sure we'd all be in the pages of the next best-seller."

"That wouldn't be quite cricket, would it?"

"No, it wouldn't, and you're strong on cricket, aren't you?"

He stole a quick glance at her out of the corner of his eye but the darkness hid her face. Baffling girl. He couldn't make up his mind whether she was clever by accident or intent.

She was silent then, tired of her play. The rest of the drive they talked very little. The next day she took her new frock down to the shop to show it to Laura. Laura said it had swish. But it was patent that she had to make an effort to be interested in it.

"Swish is what I need. I started something a long time ago on that cruising party when I said I was engaged to Philip Callen and now I've got to see it through. If Philip isn't going to be interested in me, I'll have three new men to work on."

"What do you mean 'Philip isn't interested'?" Laura asked, instantly alert.

Cecily said, "Oh, his brief ardor expressed on another occasion so, so, so have deflated. He's anxious to get back to work, he says."

"Back where?"

"He's going to Rio, he says." Laura was showing unvoiced interest in Philip. Poor Laura, Cecily thought. She probably feels the way I do. Maybe my mood is contagious. We used to be so gay around here, a couple of school-girls playing at romance.

"What are you going to wear to the dance, Laura? Your turquoise sari?"

"I'm not going," Laura said quickly.

"Not going to the Yacht Club dance? Why, Laura, where's your patriotism, or local pride, or social consciousness, or something? See how brave I am. Laura, can't you be the same? What's the matter with you? You haven't lost anything."

Laura lifted her head proudly but her face looked as forlornly pathetic as a child's. "Donald was in yesterday. It's the first time I've seen him since... since..."

Cecily knew that since she was hadn't seen Locke since that day.

"Go on," she said gently. "Donald was in, and—"

"He Regrets!"

HE SAID he was very sorry to be disappointed, but business calls him to... to somewhere else. I didn't even hear the name of it. He regrets that he will be unable to be here."

"And what do you make of it, Mrs. Atwill?"

Laura said tonelessly. "What is there to make of it? He doesn't want to see me again. He doesn't want to be seen at the dance with me. He thinks... oh, what he thinks is dreadful!"

"Now, see what you've done, Cecily Stuart, getting your friends in trouble!"

"Oh, Laura! I'm so dreadfully sorry. That stick-in-the-mud! Calling him names doesn't help any of us. Besides, I don't blame him."

"Don't blame him? Laura Atwill, haven't you any backbone? What in Sam Hill can't you tell him? Tell him what an idiot he is! He's been taking you out—'sparking', they call it up here—all summer. His intentions must have been good. So what are you afraid of?"

Laura didn't answer her. "If I were you, I'd send a note."

MODENA

Modena, Aug. 28—A good attendance was made at the tent show held Thursday evening, in the lot adjoining the Modena fire house. The local fire department was benefited by the performance.

Mrs. May Coy visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coy at Clintondale Tuesday evening.

Miss Marie Kelder has returned to her home here after visiting relatives in Middletown.

Albert Coy is living on the Tenney place with Mr. and Mrs. Orville Coy, instead of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coy as reported. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coy moved from Modena to part of the house at Trenton in Clintondale.

Mrs. Preston Patridge and daughters, Edith and Phyllis, also Solie Bernard of Poughkeepsie were in Newburgh Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Seymour have returned home from a visit with Mrs. May Knox at Clinton.

right over to his bank asking him to please drop in this afternoon. Then when he gets here, I'd back him into a chair and say, 'Look here, Donald Hemmingway, what sort of a girl do you think I am? Then I'd tell him the truth.'"

"It sounds easy enough, Cecily, but it isn't," Laura was saying. "You seem to forget that I can't tell Donald any more than I can tell you."

"Oh!" Cecily groaned. A little later she said determinedly, "We'll show Mr. Hemmingway! You're coming to the dance without him. We've two extra men to go to our place. The Penny twins are coming and Dr. Kettering, Aunt Olivia's pet physician, and a man named Frank Smith will be there. They'll be delighted to have you."

"That's sweet of you, Cecily, but I'm afraid not."

The dance was on Saturday. It had been Wednesday when Donald told Laura that he had to go away on business. On Friday Cecily asked Laura if she would change her mind.

Laura had looked pained to have to refuse but she had been adamant.

Then, Saturday morning, Laura had gone to the post-office for the mail, bringing their joint mail back in a bundle. Cecily took the bunch of letters, saw that there was one from Doug, three or four for the shop, and one for Laura, the latter addressed in a strong, masculine handwriting.

She passed them on to Laura and slit the fat, stuffed envelope of Doug's letter.

Doug was coming home! She skimmed the lines first to get that news, then she read his almost unreadable scrawl slowly, page by page.

"Doug's coming home," she announced, looking up.

Laura said, "He is? How nice!" Her head was bent over her letter. "If your invitation still holds good, I think I'll accept it. I've... I've changed my mind about the dance."

"Grand!"

Laura tore her letter into infinitesimal pieces and scattered them on the burning hearth.

"Then that wasn't... er... Donald isn't coming...?"

"That wasn't from Donald," Laura said.

The Dance

TONY RICHARDSON looked at herself in Gloria's long mirror. She smoothed the flat folds of her green satin frock over her slim hips. "I'll do," she said, and added magnanimously, "We'll all do. We ought to be the belles of the ball."

The girls—Tony, Gloria, Cecily and Laura—were gathered in Gloria's bedroom getting their wraps on.

Tony's guess wasn't far wrong. The four of them were lovely to look at. Tony herself, a slim reed in a sheath of pale green satin. Gloria had chosen a picture frock of rich fuchsia with a billowing skirt and stiff, puffed sleeves. Cecily was a flame in her red gown. Laura had taken on a new beauty with the pallor of her skin dramatized by her cap of dark hair, the brilliance of her turquoise frock.

"Well," Tony said, looking at the pearls which Gloria clasped about her throat, "I've got a ring in for show, I'll break out with a bracelet if you're sure I won't be spreading it on too thick."

She clasped a wide diamond bracelet on her slim wrist.

"You won't," Gloria said patly. "The place will be a-glitter. Good Lord, it's after nine! Let's all get moving. It's the last party of the season and we might as well make the most of it."

Cecily said, "I'll get my polo coat."

Cecily, Tony and Laura with the Penny twins and Dr. Kettering drove down to the Yacht Club in the doctor's sedan.

The dance had already started. Through the trees they could see the windows of the Yacht Club smiling a yellow welcome from every window. The loud, merry music awakened the night as they swung the car off the main road and drove through the tree-bordered road that wound round to the front of the clubhouse.

Philip stood on the veranda waiting for them. He did look attractive in his white mess jacket, Cecily thought. He was by far the most attractive man on their party.

He opened the door. "First dance with a girl," he said, giving Cecily a gallant hand.

"Do you mind if I take off my coat?" she laughed.

"Don't be long. The music is good," he said.

The girls crossed the floor to the dressing-room. Cecily paused at the door and took a sweeping, appreciative glance at the main lounge where the floor was cleared for dancing.

"Now, aren't you glad you came?" she said to Laura. "This is your handiwork and it does look beautiful."

Laura didn't say anything.

"What, by the way, did make you change your mind?" Cecily asked.

Laura's mouth closed tightly.

Continued tomorrow.

Mrs. DuBois Grimm and guest, Miss Winifred Barry, of Long Island, were in Newburgh Wednesday.

Many local people visited the scene of the accident at Clintondale Wednesday evening when a large oil truck overturned near Harold Dungee's place. One of the occupants of the truck was injured and removed to a hospital in Kingston by ambulance.

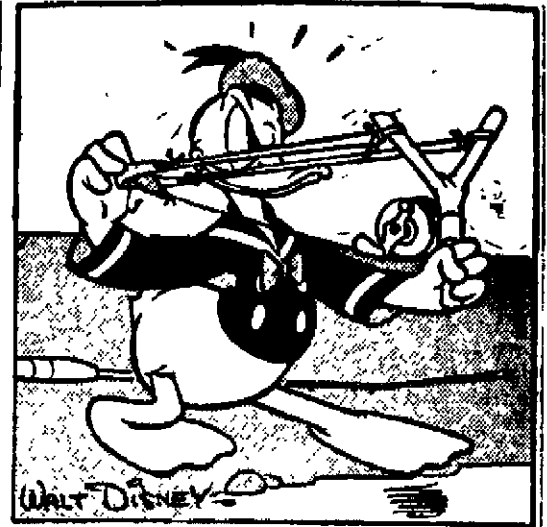

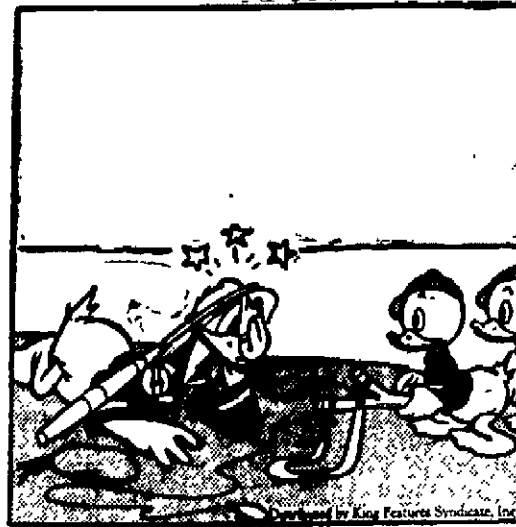

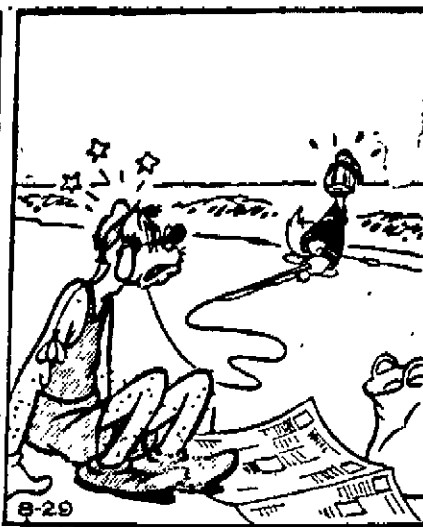

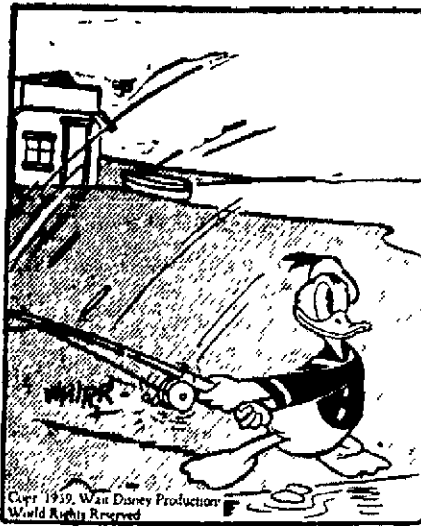

Loren Evory of Kingston is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Myron Shultz. Mrs. Lester Wager and Miss Beatrice Ward were in Newburgh Wednesday.

The Misses Mary Ella and Emma Ward attended the funeral of a relative in New Hurley Wednesday.

Burial was made in the Modena Rural Cemetery Wednesday of the infant of Mr. and Mrs. George Alsdorf of Walden.

Instead of beginning at the bottom and working up, some young couples begin at the top and slide down.

Neighbor—And what have you bought for your wife?

Man—A lawn mower.

An insurance man has just spent an hour telling me how by saving through an insurance plan I can be independent at 65. He paints a glowing picture of loafing, fishing, playing golf, sailing around the world.

The idea of saving money for old age is a good one, but I think we must save more than money to make the later years truly rich. We should have our friends and make new ones so we will have someone to go fishing with us when we retire. No one is more pathetic than a lonely old man.

We must do some constructive work that will endure, we must render some worthy service, we must help others to grow so that as we enter the sunset years we may feel that our lives have not been lived in vain. We must make friends of good books and good music for these will cast a benediction into our final years. We must so live, too, that we may hoard up a great store of beautiful memories. We should have in our mental bank only thoughts of peace, good will and love with no room for prejudice or remorse.

It will take more than a check each month to make an old man contented and happy. Be sure to save now all the things that make for true wealth.

Bored (interrupting)—Good gracious, you're quite right. I had no idea it was so late. Goodbye.

The small boy had a terrible fear of dogs. Once after a long struggle to get him past a large German Shepherd dog, his mother scolded him for his timidity.

"You'd be afraid of dogs, too, mother," he replied, "if you were as low down as I am."

Waiter—Well, sir, they are so fresh that they fight each other in the kitchen.

Diner—Take this one away, and bring me one of the winners.

Journalists Buffaloed

Buffalo, N. Y., (AP)—Adolf Hitler "has all the journalists Buffaloed" so none know what he will do next, asserts Gregor A. Ziener, for 11 years headmaster of the discontinued American Embassy School in Berlin. Ziener, visiting relatives here, told interviewers he planned to remain in the United States. Germany's present mission, he said, "is to break down the feeling of invincibility of the British. Germany is capitalizing on everything Japan does to put Britain to shame." Americans, he said, are pictured in German propaganda as "rather naive, juvenile people."

Mrs. Ella Secor and daughter, Gladys, one time residents of Shokan, plan to leave Kingston soon for a visit with Mrs. Secor's other daughter, Elsie, in California.

Receipts for the week of August 17-24, 1939, at the toll gate on the old Plank Road a mile west of Kingston amounted to $138. DeWitt C. Davis of Shokan tended gate at that time for Sheriff Davis Winne of The Corner, who was operating the toll road. Mr. Davis also served as jailor under Sheriff Winne in Civil War days.

Alfred Berryman and family of Phoenixia were numbered among the thousands of out of town residents visiting the reservoir section Sunday.

Money Is No Good in Berlin Without Little Nazi Ticket

By ALVIN J. STEINKOPF

Berlin, Aug. 29 (AP).—A hundred dollar bill, or 1,000 marks, could not buy two sticks of shaving soap, a dozen handkerchiefs, or three dresses in Berlin today.

And without a letter, stamped and sealed by a Nazi authority, the richest man in Berlin couldn't buy a pair of shoes.

Many Germans, most of whom are fairly prosperous these days, learned with a jolt yesterday money is useless when a government, as

Cho-Cho Comes Back to Town

Cho-Cho, the original health clown, is back in the city. Monday he gave an interesting program for the children in the Convention of St. Anne on Broadway. Cho-Cho is stopping with friends in Woodstock, and plans to leave shortly for a tour of the country winding up his tour in Florida where he will spend the winter.

Twenty years ago, a resident of Palmyra, N. J., originated the idea of a health clown and since then he has been appearing constantly before groups, large and small of children. During the entire 20 years he has never appeared before an audience of adults, playing exclusively to children.

In his performance he emphasizes the need of children eating more fruits and vegetables. So successful is he in amusing children that year after year he appears in the same cities with his unique performance.

Cho-Cho said his name originated from using the first letter in the words, children, health and organization.

"What is your real name?" he was asked.

"Cho-Cho," he replied with a smile, "I am known by not other name."

He said that he was the first man in the world to originate the health clown, and that since then he has had many imitators.

Cho-Cho was in Kingston last year, and today he does not appear to have grown any older.

RUMBLING TOWARD WAR?

Trucks loaded with men of the Nazi Heimwehr ("Home Defense Corps") roll through a forest in Danzig near the Polish border apparently ready for any outbreak of hostilities. Later in the day, Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador to Germany, said Adolf Hitler's answer to his demands on Poland, a few hours after Nazi political circles said Der Fuehrer had made up his mind not to budge from his position in Europe's critical hour. The position was that Poland must deliver up Danzig and Pomorze (The Polish Corridor) and made other adjustments along the Polish-German border. This picture was transmitted by radio from Berlin to New York.

HENDERSON FLIES BACK TO HITLER

Britain's ambassador to Germany, Sir Neville Henderson, enters a plane at Weston airport, near London, to carry to Adolf Hitler the British reply to Hitler's message on the European crisis. While an emergency session of the British parliament was called, and the government adopted sweeping defense regulations, the outcome of Sir Neville's flight was anxiously awaited.

Pleas for Dachshunds

London, Aug. 29 (AP).—The Times published a letter from D. L. Murray of Brighton today, asking caricaturists and humorous writers to quit making the dachshund the symbol of the German nation. "Absurd as it may seem," he said, "the prevalence of this idea in the popular imagination has produced real risk of thoughtless acts of cruelty being committed against harmless little animals which are English by birth and often by generations of breeding."

The hay shortage in many parts of New York state should encourage drastic culling of inferior cows, animal husbandry experts say.

MOTHER PROTECTS CHILDREN IN 'BOMB' SCARE

A frightened woman attempts to shield her children from a bomb scare in Downing Street, London, caused when a man tossed a suitcase full of black rubber balls into the air. Screams and a stampede followed, until it developed that the balls were not bombs, but bore chalked peace slogans. (Pictures by radio from London.)

HIGHLAND NEWS

Highland, Aug. 29.—Tuesday, September 5 has been set as the date of dedication of the new high school with Col. M. E. Gilmour of New York to be the guest speaker. Col. Gilmour is in charge of the PWA office in that city and has been in close touch with the construction of the new school.

Other guests are to be members of the various local organizations and a feature of the evening will be the presentation of a new flag, the gift of Ida McKinley Council, Daughters of America. The presentation is to be made by Mrs. A. W. Lent, whose husband is a member of the board and who is active in the council. Other guests are to be members of the school boards from Wappingers Falls, Wallkill, Hyde Park, Marlborough, Goshen, Red Hook, Arlington, New Paltz. These arrangements were talked over at the local board on Friday evening.

The students will register at 9 o'clock and then be returned to their homes. The transportation schedule of pupils has been rearranged by Vice-Principal John J. Gaffney. The building will be open all that day for inspection.

In connection with the old building four janitors will be required with Edward Tubbs as supervising janitor, assisted by Harry Thompson and Fred Lankenau and it is expected Myroldt Freer will be the fourth man. Miss Mary Cusumano has been engaged as secretary to the principal. She succeeds Miss Mary Castana, who resigned to be married in September.

While the building is still in the hands of the contractor, several of the rooms are occupied or ready for occupancy, such as the home-making room, with Miss Avis Rowell as the head of the department; the agriculture room and Arthur Poelma, who like Miss Rowell, have spent the month of August in assisting the pupils of those departments in their summer projects. The school nurse, Mrs. C. I. Richards, has her office in readiness for use. The principal's office has been moved to the new building also.

Joneses Are Second Half Champs of City Baseball League

Decision Over Boiceville by 9-0 Decides the Title

Paulie Misove's Two-Hit Pitching Submerges Lou Knapp's Rangers in Loop Windup

Sweeping through on Paulie Misove's sparkling two-hitter, the Joneses captured the second half championship by trouncing Boiceville in a 9-0 whitewashing. Maximizing their last flag in decisive fashion, the Joneses administered a sound routing to Lou Knapp's Rangers in the annual City League windup, dumping off to an early 5-0 first-inning edge. The Milken coasted en route to annex the seasonal athletic field finale.

With Misove, a surprise starter, curve-balling a two-hit masterpiece, Joneses capitalized on "Ace" Dlouhy's wildness and the Rangers' loose defensive play to pile up a 5-0 edge. Four free tickets, Andy Celuch's sacrifice and scoring hits by Zadany and Jim Ashdown accounted for five tallies. After Van Derzee singled to open the second Dlouhy gave up the mound to lanky Tom McManus.

The Dari-Rich boys pecked away at McManus for twin tallies in the third and singletons in the fifth and sixth. Loose play afield hampered McManus' three-hit five-inning relief stint. Zadany's life on Bob Nussbaum's miscue, Ashdown's sacrifice and raps by Jack Berardi (a two-bagger) and Misove splashed two markers across.

Dlouhy's second bingle, two force-outs and Buddy Hughes' wild heave shoved a Dairyman tally across in the fifth. McManus plunked Andy Celuch, who pilfered second and third on North's passed ball. Hopper lofted deep to Davis in left center, Celuch jogging across with the last run of the '39 season.

Dlouhy Wild
Richey "Ace" Dlouhy, Boiceville starter, couldn't find the range in the opener and four walks put him behind the eight-ball. McManus and the "Ace" combined to allow only six raps but Joneses took advantage of every break. With the last half of the game, the Dairyman inserted Charley Neff and Brooks along with Schatzel in the fourth.

Misove Hurls Well
Misove flipped a two-hit curveball performance to clinch the flag for the Milken in fitting fashion. Only four men reached first against the veteran curveball master. Al Nussbaum and Hughes slashed successive singles in the third but Misove fanned Bob Nussbaum and forced the dangerous Lane to pop out to Van Derzee. Lane reached first on Celuch's hobble and Al Nussbaum drew Misove's lone free ticket in the sixth.

Misove Has Been Around a Long Time
Misove has been around a long time but last night was in superb form. Flashing near-perfect control, the plodding Dairyman's No. 2 man issued but one pass and struck out two. Joneses turned in several neat plays with Van Derzee's work at shortstop particularly outstanding. Van Derzee handled eight chances in fancy-dance style.

Zadany Paces Hitters
Zadany collected two for three to boost his batting averages while Jack Berardi, rookie right fielder, maced a two-bagger. Al Nussbaum laced one of Boiceville's two knocks while Hughes crashed a one-bagger off Van Derzee's glove. Al "Sluggo" Davis' batting streak was stopped cold when Brooks pocketed Lane's loft after a long run. Joneses marched right into the Little World Series as the Independents' foe.

Bleacher Blarney
Bill Bush nearly took Misove's right leg off with a savage drive through the box. Bill nailed it but Misove groggily tossed him out. Bushie certainly rides that apple when he connects.

Al Nussbaum, Boiceville Flash
Al Nussbaum, Boiceville flash, romped a country mile to spear Milly Berardi's foul fly on the sidewalk in the sixth. Lou Knapp, Boiceville maestro, took a cut once again and (shucks) bounced into a twin-killing in the sixth. Better luck next year.

Van Derzee Romped Way Back
Van Derzee romped way back into left field to snare North's high pop in the third. Chappie can really cover that shortstop post.

It'll Be Jones Dairy versus the Independents in the Little World Series
Brother, won't the fur fly when these two outfits hook up. Hats off to the Boiceville Rangers! Knapp's crew made a decided hit with the two-loop fans in their first season. A hustling crew of youngsters.

See you at the all-star game at the new stadium Thursday night.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

(By The Associated Press)

This is a piece about an old guy and a bunch of young guys—or age before beauty, in one act.

The youngsters are on the prowl in the big leagues these days—the rookies who have produced and are a cinch to stick, fellows like Charley Keller and Ted Williams, Rip Russell and Merrill May. Sometimes the youngsters look down condescendingly on the old guys, but there's one they have a long way to go to catch.

He's the perennial laughing boy of baseball, garrulous Gabby Hartnett. Gabby hasn't much much longer to go in harness. He's staring 40 in the eye, and has been doing his chore behind the plate for the Chicago Cubs these last 17 years. But yesterday he put his name in the record books again.

The game itself didn't amount to much. It was just a Monday outing against the Phillies, which the Cubs figured to win. They did, 5-3. But Gabby had on the mask and the pads and the big mitt, and was shaking that ham-like fist for his boys to show fight. That was the 1,721st or 1,722nd game Gabby has been out there with harness draped around his portly frame.

Ray Schalk, the old White Sox workhorse, always was regarded as being "untouchable" in that respect. He was back there in the tough spot with an all-time record of 1,721 games from 1912 through 1928. Until official figures are checked, it won't be decided whether Gabby equalled Ray's record or broke it yesterday, but since the Cubs have 31 more games to play this season, the Gabby Guy is a cinch to be out in front all by himself before long.

So the rookies, and there is a goodly number of Grade-A performers among them, can tip the hat to the laughing boy this morning.

At the moment, their big argument seems to be fighting it out for the crown of the year's freshman. A month or so ago, it looked like Williams, the Boston Red Sox socker, who leads both leagues in driving in runs, and who won another ball game yesterday with an eight-inning homer that beat the Cleveland Indians, 6-5.

But now Charley Keller is putting in his bid. Charley got a late start with the Yankees, but is bating .356. Yesterday he collected himself a homer and a brace of singles as the Yankees slaughtered the Detroit Tigers, 18-2. Charley wasn't the biggest noise, however, since Joe DiMaggio whacked a homer with the bases loaded and another with two aboard.

Texas Rangers Play Kingston Colonials Here Tomorrow

Tuesday night, under the arc lights at the new Municipal Stadium, the Colonials will play the Texas Rangers, one of the better road attractions, starting at 8:30 o'clock sharp.

Manager Fred Davi, whose tossers have two State League games on tap for Friday and Sunday, today said, "We've made all arrangements for the lighting plant to arrive early, to prevent delayed starting."

Davi, is anxious for victory because of the two league dates at Glens Falls and one with Troy at the stadium uptown, Sunday night. Tonight the Colonials meet Bennington there in a loop skirmish and bank on taking over the 'B's in the same fashion that they did the New York Stars this week when they snapped out of their big streak of errors.

The Texans, besides being accomplished ball players, put on a show, similar to the House of David and other exhibition road

Old Westbury Team Break-Up Leaves Polo Open Wide Open

STEWART IGLEHART

By The AP Feature Service

Sonny Whitney's decision to disband the Old Westbury polo team has broken up what threatened to be a monopoly on the national open championship.

For the past two years the team Whitney captained has taken the title, crushing opposition with an outfit which boasted three 10-goal stars, Stewart Iglehart, Mike Phipps and Cecil Smith.

With those three—Tommy Hitchcock is the United States' fourth 10-goal player—free to join other crews, polo experts expect a much more evenly balanced field for the championship starting September 16 at Meadow Brook, Long Island.

The Greentree Four, a combination built around Tommy Hitchcock, stands as a favorite. Greentree was runner-up in both 1937 and 1938 to Westbury.

Mike Phipps is expected to perform with a Texas Ranger team and it's considered probable that Iglehart and Smith will team up together on some other outfit. Whitney disbanded the team because he was unable to devote sufficient time to the game.

Reds Worry As Cards Turn On Heat

(By The AP Feature Service)

Those heel-nipping St. Louis Cardinals have Cincinnati squirming at the top of the National League ladder. The Cards, after blowing a good start with a mid-season slump, are back making their own pennant bid. Johnny Mize and Ducky Medwick are the big guns of a powerful hitting array and Jimmy Brown has been slugging when the chips are down. Curt Davis, league's No. 1 workhorse who tired under extra-heavy slump duty, is back in top form with young hurlers like Mort Cooper finally handling their share of the load.

Driver Is Killed In Boat Crackup

Detroit, Aug. 28 (UP)—The Gold Cup speedboat race, test of the nerves of men and the power of motors, is still a week distant, but it already has cost the life of one driver and sent a boat to the river bottom.

Joe Schaeffer, 49-year-old Detroit who was to pilot the Delphine IX in the Labor Day classic, was fatally injured last night when the craft overturned and sank during a trial run on the Detroit river.

Roaring over the course at a speed estimated at 90 miles an hour, the Delphine IX suddenly leaped high into the air, hurling Schaeffer and his mechanic, Ed Mackenzie, into the water. Schaeffer, his chest crushed, was taken unconscious from the river, and died several hours later after oxygen treatments had failed to revive him. Mackenzie, also of Detroit, was stunned by the impact but escaped with bruises.

The Delphine IX, built by Millinaire Horace Dodge in 1933 and leased by Schaeffer for the race, has been dogged by ill luck. She has never finished a Gold Cup race in several years of competition.

The boat, whose 16-cylinder motor packed 1,005 horsepower, sank in 26 feet of water. Rivermen attached a buoy to her and planned lifting operations today. Mackenzie said the Delphine was "performing exceptionally well" when she apparently hit a submerged object and seemed to "fly apart."

The remaining six Gold Cup entries are the Bitter Dame, Herby Mendelson's 1937 winner which cracked up before the 1938 event; Miss Canada, entered by E. A. Wilson of Ingersoll, Ont.; My Sin, Zaimon G. Simmons, Rye, N. Y.; So Long, Louis J. Fabeol, Los Angeles; Art Eff V, Dr. A. L. Harbarger, Akron, O., and Mercury, M. J. Cooper, Louisville.

Little World Series Meeting

Tonight in the city hall at 7 o'clock the managers and captains of Jones Dairy and the Independents, Kingston Little World Series '39 opponents, are requested to assemble to complete final arrangements. President Joe Kelly, Treasurer Ed Banks and Secretary Jim Geoghan will announce tentative arrangements for the play-off series, scheduled to get under way Sunday. Following last season's arrangements, the classic will be played in a best two-out-of-three basis.

Final plans for the All-Star game will be discussed and all concerned are urged to be on hand promptly tonight.

Improper treatment of jars after processing may be one of the reasons for spoilage of canned products. For information on modern canning methods that safeguard against failures, send a post card to the Office of Publication, Roberts Hall, Ithaca, N. Y., for a free copy of the recently revised "Home Canning" bulletin E-261.

Reina Will Back Football Team Again for This Season

At the meeting of the local football squad, formerly called the Yellow Jackets, in the Nick Kaslich billiard parlor, last night, Manuel Reina, local General Electric distributor, decided to back the Kingston club again and the eleven will play under the GE banner the same as last season.

Other business, besides discussion of finances, at last night's meeting was choosing officers. Jimmy Cullum, ex-high school star, was selected president of the Generals. Mac Tiano was chosen vice president, Ed Minasian, treasurer and Harold DeGraff, secretary.

Gus Steigerwald will attend to the booking of games as in the past, Ken Hyatt will direct the sale of tickets and the publicity bureau will be handled by Minasian, Tiano and Don Beany, coach of the team.

"If we're going to make a good showing and draw support from football fans of Kingston and surrounding territory," said Coach

Beany, "we must go into this thing in earnest." Beany announced plans for practices and advised all of the gridders to attend them regularly for conditioning and signal drills. Players who miss the practices will be fined. A practice is on tap for tomorrow at 6:30 on the Athletic field.

The GE's will travel to Watertown for a game on September 24, and hope to play a night game at the new Municipal Stadium, uptown, on the 29th.

One of the propositions discussed was a Hudson Valley League, but it was voted down as being undesirable due to the lack of formidable teams except Newburgh.

Kingston's grid representatives will number 18, fully equipped players with new jerseys and other paraphernalia.

Honorary membership was accorded to Ken Hyatt, James "Moose" Tiano and Jim Steigerwald. Bill Scully and "Dutch" Crow will be the officials for home games.

Gruver Captains Arsenal Bowlers

A. S. Gruver, formerly of this city and now of the U. S. Arsenal, Watervliet, has been elected captain and manager of the Arsenal Bowling Teams.

Gruver, who formerly bowled under the colors of the Troy Masonic Club, the Schenectady G-E's and more recently with the Arsenal organizations, engaged in competition in this city two years ago and at Tuck Rock Inn, Cocksackie, with Ad Jones' team.

Softball Stars In Fourth Game

The fourth in the series of five games being played between all-star teams selected from players of the Church Softball League, the teams being known as the National and American League teams, will be played at the Armory diamond tonight, starting at 6:30.

Batteries will be Osterhoudt and Hotelling for the Nationals, Vining and Carle for the Americans. Up to date the score stands: Nationals, 2; Americans, 1.

Colonial Women Meet Thursday

There will be a meeting of the Colonial Women's League Thursday, August 31, at the Central Recreation Alley at 6 o'clock.

President Adelaide Gilbert requests that all members and others interested attend.

The Kingston Police baseball team will be after its fifth straight win over Newburgh tomorrow, when the two clubs clash at Recreation Park in the Hilly City.

Lieut. James V. Simpson, whose Kingston tossers slapped down the Newburghers 4-1 at the opening of the new municipal stadium earlier in the month, are ready to put up a hard battle for their fifth decision.

Young Fred Fatum, the rookie patrolman, who stepped into the pitching role in the absence of Freddie Stoudt, did an excellent job at the stadium and with his battery mate, the veteran, Len Rylea, hopes to chalk up another victory at Newburgh.

Lieut. Simpson will use his regular lineup of Wes Cramer, 1b; Ed Leonard, 2b; Bill Leonard, ss, and Tom McGrane, 3b, in the infield tomorrow.

In the outfield will be Bob Murphy, lf; Lem Howard, cf, and Frank Sammons, rf. George Bowers, Bill Messing and Pete Keresman will be in the utility lineup.

Newburgh probably will use the same crew that tried to overthrow the Colonial Cobbers in the stadium, hoping to win at home. The Kingston team is scheduled to leave from the city hall at 4 o'clock and begin play at Recreation Park at 5:30, a half hour earlier than in previous years.

Tomato a Fruit but Called a Vegetable

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 29—The tomato, according to a Supreme Court decision of 1893, is a vegetable. Botanically it is a fruit. Dietetically, it is an inexpensive source of vitamin C. By one and all classifications, says the New York state college of home economics it is a popular food with matchless flavor and an attractive coloring.

Fresh, home-grown tomatoes are now on the markets. They are welcome additions, says the college, because of their palatability, the variety of their usefulness, and their high nourishing value. When it comes to supplying food value, the tomato almost spans the vitamin alphabet.

Housewives are reminded that it is best to buy vegetables and fruits in season, for usually the quality is best and the price lowest when the locally-grown product is on the market. Tomatoes, as well as other vegetables, should be used as soon as possible after gathering.

Many appetizing ways of serving tomatoes, either cooked or raw, are known and used by homemakers. Raw tomatoes, either sliced or stuffed, make delicious salads, and they add much to mixed vegetable salads. They may also be baked, plain or stuffed with bread stuffing, shrimp, crab, sweetbreads, chicken, or left-over meat. Following are some ways of cooking suggested by food experts at the college:

Three Variations of Stewed Tomatoes

Tomatoes

To stewed tomatoes add:

About one-fourth as much freshened cooked codfish.

Scrapes of dried beef which have been softened in a little warm water and drained.

Fried Tomatoes

Slice green or slightly under-ripe tomatoes, drain, then in cornmeal, and fry. Serve with bacon or Canadian bacon.

Tomato With Baked Egg

Cut off the tops of large, firm tomatoes, and scoop out the pulp.

Salt the inside, drain, and sprinkle with chopped sautéed onion. Fill it half-full with a mixture of well-seasoned bread crumbs and finely-chopped cooked meat, and on top of this mixture break a whole egg.

Salt, pepper, and butter the eggs, and bake the tomatoes in a hot oven at 400 degrees Fahrenheit for from 15 to 20 minutes, until the eggs are nicely jellied.

Serve tomatoes with baked egg as the main course at lunch or supper.

School District Must Pay To Carry Parochial Pupils

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 24 (AP)—A Suffolk county school district must transport 24 parochial students to their school despite a taxpayers' vote against such transportation, the state education department has ruled.

In the first test of a 1939 law requiring out-of-provision of a constitutional amendment, Acting Education Commissioner Ernest B. Cole ruled yesterday the law "mandates" provision for free transportation of non-public school students where it is needed "notwithstanding that undue hardship, financial or otherwise, results to the district."

Taxpayers of School District 11, town of Southampton, voted 97 to 4 against the transportation of pupils to St. John's Parochial School in Center Moriches after the district board of education claimed it would cost $1,200 annually and the district would "be obliged to discontinue the manual arts and home economic classes."

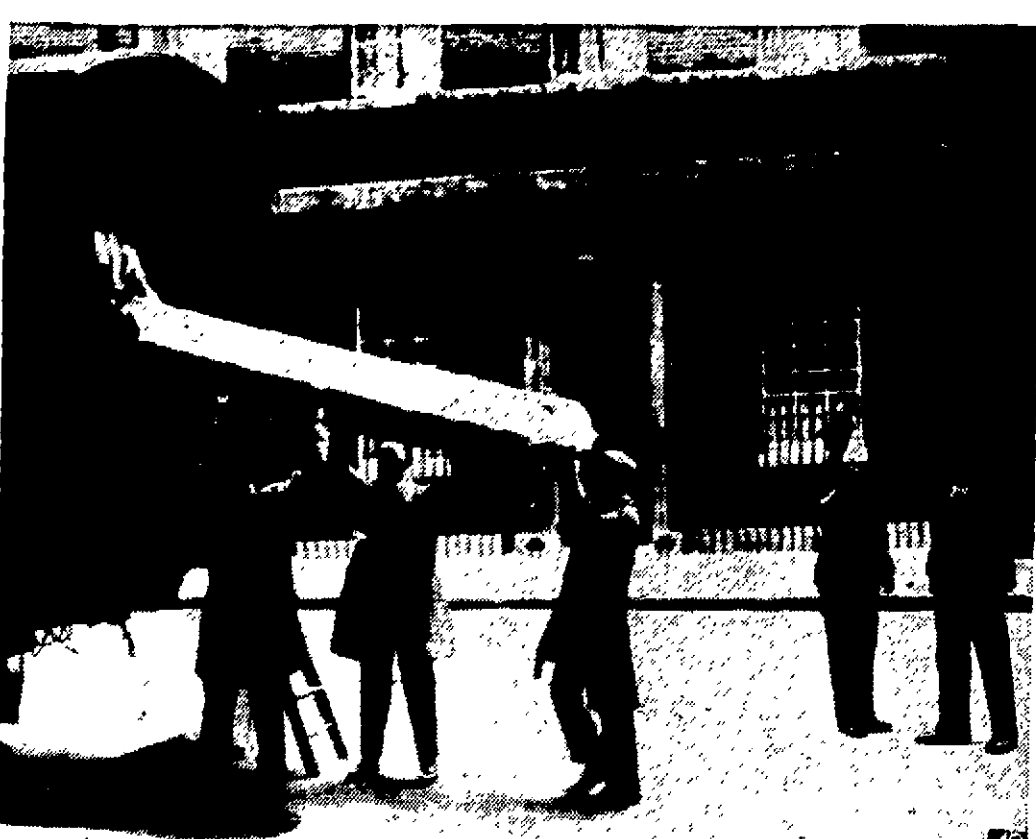

Parents of the children appealed to the education department, which said the district board of education should levy taxes to provide payment.

Came to Visit Friends, But Left Address at Home

Seven people from Michigan, on a trip east, stopped in Kingston Monday night, having planned to stay with friends who had recently moved to this city. Unfortunately, they discovered they had left the address of their friends at home and inquiries last night could not locate them. They found accommodations at a hospitable home here, however, and this morning, through the assistance of the sheriff's office and the police department, the sought-for address was located on Foxhall avenue.

MOVING DAY AT BRITISH FOREIGN OFFICE

The British government sent Sir Neville Henderson to Chancellor Hitler to try to negotiate peace, but at the same time these workmen busied themselves removing furniture from the Foreign Office in London—just in case. The assumption was that the Foreign Office was removed to safer location in the event of air raids. Prime Minister Chamberlain's residence, No. 10 Downing street, can be seen in the background. This picture was transmitted by radio from London to New York.

Nazis Broadcast Atrocity Stories; Tell of Bestiality

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—The Daily News today said listeners to German short wave stations DJB and DJD were treated to German stories of Polish "atrocities" last night.

The News said the broadcasts differed from previous ones in that announcements in the German language related numerous stories omitted in the English version.

Announcements in German, the News said, included the following: "Poland has now systematized the hourly increasing persecutions of Germans. Measures of torturing and maltreating are piling up. Polish terrorist bands have been equipped with arms by Polish authorities."

In German and English: "It is reported from Riga that hundreds of Polish soldiers with full war equipment are deserting hourly across the Polish-Latvian border."

(German only): "The number cannot be estimated at this moment, because they are still pouring across the border in great numbers. It is learned from these deserters that the organization of the Polish army is very deficient. Also, their equipment was mostly in a pitiable state."

"Polish bestiality has reached heights too revolting for words. Today a highly pregnant German woman, who was being driven along a highway into the interior by a band of Polish terrorists, together with several hundred other helpless Germans, was kicked in the abdomen by Polish beasts until she died at the wayside."

"Another woman who was pregnant gave premature birth, due to the ruthless treatment received, and mother and child died, due to lack of care."

"A four year old boy was torn away from his mother, and when the child began to struggle and to cry, his hand was cut off and he was left to die in the ditch beside the highway."

"Thousands of our German racial comrades are desperately trying to get out of Polish torture hell. They are so desperate they are using trains that do not stop in Danzig territory, but run through it at an increased speed. They jump out of the moving trains and many of them have been killed and maimed. Yet, many people are continuing to try this method of escape, because they say, 'we'd rather be dead than in Poland.'"

Elwyn to Present 'Holiday House' By Elissa Landi

Woodstock, Aug. 29—Elissa Landi, who has singled out Ulster county for her home, will star in her own play "Holiday House," at the Woodstock Playhouse for the season's finale starting Thursday evening. The play will run through to Monday night.

Miss Landi, who won fame in this country as a movie star, makes use of her experience in Hollywood to present some of her observations of family life there. The play is a comedy drama and has as its locale, "Sunset Boulevard," in Hollywood.

The action centers around a script writer, costume designer and a director, but the play avoids stress on the movie industry itself. It is a portrayal of the family life of these interesting people and is more of a "behind-the-scenes" version of happenings in Hollywood.

Miss Landi appears as Isabel, the younger sister of the household, and appearing with her in several scenes is her own dog, "Winkie," an intelligent Cairn dog, whose stage name is "Piffle." Winkie has traveled all over England, Europe and the United States with his mistress in her many starring vehicles.

The play will provide a first opportunity for many people of the area to see Miss Landi on the stage and the management of the Playhouse announces that the prices will remain the same for this presentation.

It is expected that there will be some extra color in the audience for this play since a number of Miss Landi's professional friends will attend. The play is being directed by Robert Elwyn.
